Cassidy Shuffles the Cards.

Occasionally Madame Cassidi, the wrinkled Syble of the Base Range shuffles up a greasy pack of ards in the Sentiael office and is the old dame's latest:

A gentleman from the Western part of the State, who is in a posion to know, tell us that the Republican slate is already made up for next year's political contest in Change is one of the irresistable Nevada. It comprises the names of John P. Jones for Senator, W. E. Sharon for Governor and Frank G. Newlands, of California, for Member of Congress. Our informant says there is no question that this is the programme, as it has been arranged in San Francisco by the railroads and the magnates of the leading mines on the Comstock. We have but little doubt of the correctness of the information, and gither that the goods will be delive ed in the Republican State Convention. We can think of but one possible kicker against the programme, and he lives in White Pine, and has more ability, within ce tain lines, than all of the Republican leaders put together in Nevada.

The Rain.

There was a good wholesome rain on Sunday that began in the after noon and continued at intervals all night. It was welcomed by everyone as it laid the dust, cleared the air and raised the Carson river.

THE "BLUE JAY" CASE.

QUEER ANTICS OF A FORMER CARSON WOMAN.

How She Imposed on San Francisco Journal.

Sunday's Chronicle when it arrived in this city created a very lively

It gave a two column account of mysterous abduction of a woman calling herself Ray Foster, con MARRIED-In Reno, Sunday, Oct. nected her with George Givevich, of this city and stated that she had been shot by him in Carson and that he had caused her abduction in order to get her out of the way as she knew some dark secret of

THE FACTS.

Half a do.en persons were in the bar room at the time who where, for I thought everyone were good, responsible men and all knew I did it, but then I heard that agree that Givevich was behind the she said she did it herself I was all bar when the shot was fired.

she stated that she fired the shot can anciem now, and always will. herself in the presence of severale ! .. know why George don't see witnesses.

A LIVELY COST BILL.

Next day a dispatch came from a man in San Francisco named Bultells fortunes for the boys. Here | lock, that he would be responsible for all bills in having her properly cared for. Givevich on the strength of the dispatch paid for everything and paid about $1,100 in bills occasioned by her sickness.

> After her recovery she left town but about three months ago returned and demanded that Givevich marry her. He declined and then she went to San Francisco and began to write letters to annoy Givevich.

HER LETTERS.

The following is one received at this office. It was printed with a pen and being anonymous was of course not published.

San Francisco, Sept. 30, 1889. CARSON APPEAL :- On the sixth of last November Eva. Givevich's mistress, was shot in a card room in Bryson & Givevich's saloon. The report of the gun was heard by everyone in the saloon, but George Givevich was the first in the room and took her out of the chair and laid her on the floor. While doing so he asked her to say she shot herself and save him. She promised that he did not do the shooting. o do so at first.

But afterwards when she thought tell the Sheriff, but could not make him understand.

Givevich promised me that he would take care of her until she got well, but he has failed to do so. The woman is not only crippled, but her right arm is also paralized. I have written several other letters but have not signed my name as I

AN EYE WITNESS TO THE SHOOTING

Eva did not shoot herseif. The following is in exactly the same hand writing and exonerates Givevich from the shooting.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30, 1889,

Mr. Bryson.-Sir, you are an honorable man, but your partner is not. It was he that sent the paper of maggots to Eva. He told me to put them in the box when no one Crecker's printing house, as aswould see me, and I did so.

watched my chance and got the gun. She went out of the room several times, so I got it very easy. She was full, and did not miss it until after she was shot.

I watched her talking to everyone that come in the room. I saw him in the face two or three times then burned something up in the little stove. I could not hear the conversation. He went out of the room two or three times; she called him back. He gave her a penci and she commenced to write. She did not see me until I was beside her. Then she must have thought I was George, for she told me to get out until she was through writing. She was asking him to pay for the team she had, for she was going to Virginia City and did not went in while she was writing she was singing "Will you love me when I am old?" That may be what she wrote; I don't know. As I grabbed the paper she jumped up, but I shot her before she could see me. She would have fallen at my feet, but I Last November she went into pushed her back in her chair, then got out of the room and was almost the first in again after George. The her in the chair was. "Oh, George, help me." Then she commenced to say "I am dead, dead, dead." Bryson went back and warned When George put her on the floor over town. I would have given was wild and could not stay anyright then it still could see her As the woman lay there bleeding glass, e blooking at me just as I them now for he saw then. Eva's reason for keeping still is that she thinks that George shot her. George is just as much a would-be murderer as I am. I cannot give myself up now for one reason. George must do something to his victim as soon as you receive this letter or I will send him to hell by the same route he would have Eva go. He cannot hide or get away from me, for I will get him at some time, so he had better settle at once.

MURDERER. Sheriff Ullrick, District Attorney Torreyson and several other parties have received similar letters all in the same hand-writing and all eminating from the same source. Last evening one of the letters was sent below that it might be compared with the ones found in the apartment where the minged abduction took place.

It is the opinion of everybods here who are conversant with the woman's methods, that she he planned the whole thing to give Givevich unpleasant notoriety and has done her work so skillfully as se trap the newspapors.

Givevich says she has been try ng for a long time to extort money from him and be has ample proof

She may be expected back in Carson almost any day now and if she was going to die, she tried to she does the authorities will see that she gives no one any further annovance.

She has threatened to shoot Givevich and is regarded as a dangerous woman. She never had any claims on Givevich that have not been liquidated ten times over long

They Have Left Us. Morris Gad, Ed Johnson and

Henry Land, the three crack baseball twirlers who were imported from Truckee to assist Carson in winning all the ball games that came their way, departed from this city last night. The three boys made a large number of friends in Carson by their cheerful and honest ways. Gad goes to San Francisco to resume his duties in sistant book-keeper.
